COST IN FARM PAY FAILED TO EQUAL LIVING COST JUMP

Washington.—About 4,100,000 persons were hired as farm workers for the average part of 1947 and received average cash wages of $583, the Department of Agriculture reported.

This average represents a 25 per cent increase over 1945 figures, but the gain was more than offset by a 30 percent jump in rural living costs. The average $583 included $408 for farm wages and $175 from non-farm sources. Non-cash allowances for housing, meals and farm products are included.
